BRISTOL LOSES ITS NEW OFFICE

It Will Be Discontinued July 31 on Order of Post-Office Department.

VIRGINIANS ARE AROUSED

Delegation Is Sent Posthaste to Washington to Enter

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Bristol, Va., July 15 .- By an official order signed by Fourth Assistant Postmaster-General Blakely and received here to-day. Congressman C. B. Slemp's new post-office in Bristol, Va., established by order of President Taft, s abelished and must go out of business July 31. The order gives notice that the belongings of the Virginia ofwill be transferred to the governcitizens generally. Nobody was surprised, perhaps, than Postmashigh started with city delivery and I the conventiones incident to a first-ass office, although the office was alguated as one of the fourth-class, it said the office had receipts at the te of about $25,000 per annum, and is known that Postmaster dauther on this basis was anticipating that e department would advance the class the office this month.

There is no intimation as to what is back of the movement to discon-ue the new office. It was under-sed that Senator Lea had a resolu-n pending to inquire into the status the new office, but the impression that this resolution had not been ed upon on account of the absence Brictol, Va., office was estab-following a wrangle over the patronage here. Congressman represented to President Taft the Virginians were getting little in the patronage of the office, and ed on naming the postmaster, con-ing that Virginians were as much uation, to-night sent a delegation to Washington to protest against the order to discontinue the office. Those sideration all questions of difference between the employer and employed. He alluded to the wording of the letter in which the railroads agreed to arbitrate under the Newlands legislation. The letter read: "All questions of rates of pay and working conditions of their conductors and trainmen."

"The language of our letter is very clear," said Mr. Lee to-night. "We meant and we mean just what it says. We feel that it is right to ask for arbitration which takes into consideration the grievances of the railroads as well as the grievances of the employes." Mr. Lee declared that the men had always been urgent for arbitration upward, but never had been willing to have the railroads' questions arbitrated together with their own detaands. He said the conference conmittee would demand that the whole question of differences between the question of differences between the companies and the employes be gone ir to without reserve.

The President considered calling yesterdays White House conference himself, but Mrs. Harriman volunteered to engineer it through the Civic Federation in order that no charge of "undue influence" might be brought against the President.

The conference produced a promise of arbitration which, White House officials claim, belongs by right to Mrs. Harriman, who prevented what threatened to be the largest and most widespread strike in the history of the country.
